Principal Connection

Happy new year! What do you think of when the new year rolls around? Many of us think about setting new goals or making resolutions to try something new to better ourselves. Here at school we set goals with students on a quarterly basis around their reading and math. Since the 2nd quarter is now over, we will be setting goals with students during January to help students have a focus of not only the need to improve themselves but more importantly how they will do it. Now is the perfect time for you to set some goals at home with students as well. A goal at home might be for kids to help around the house more or keep their room clean. Goals should be realistic enough to meet but challenging as well. Even more critical than the goals themselves are the action steps needed to reach the goals. The action steps for having a clean room might be to pick up toys and clothes each night before bed, dust every couple of weeks, vacuum the floor each week, etc. Don't forget to "reward" your children with positive praise and possibly something tangible for meeting their goals after a certain time period. Here's to a better you and me this new year!
